- Article 1 These regulations are adopted in accordance with the Degree Award Law, the University Law and the Administrative Rules of the University Law. The regulations are established to broaden students' area of study, meet students' needs, and increase their career opportunities.
- Article 2 Undergraduates who have completed the first-year academic program with outstanding performances may apply for pursuit of a double major within 2 weeks after the registration date in the second academic year. Students who transferred into NCHU may apply for pursuit of a double major only after they have studied in NCHU for a year.
Undergraduate students are not allowed to pursue a double-major by taking extension education courses; extension education program students are not allowed to pursue a double-major by taking non-extension program courses.
- Article 3 “Good academic standing” stated in Article 2 is defined as anyone having a grade point average (GPA) of 80% or higher in the previous academic year or anyone whose GPA is ranked within the top 10% or within top 5 highest students of his/her class. Moreover, the student's conduct must be graded 85% or higher and his/her physical education grade is 70% or above.
- Article 4 Students' application to pursue a double major shall be approved and signed by both the dean of their original college and the dean of college to be double majored in and shall be reported to the Registration Division for record.
- Article 5 The graduation requirements for students in pursuit of a double major shall be based on the relevant regulations applicable at the time (year) when the application was approved. Double major students not only have to fulfill all graduation credit requirements of their original study, they must also complete all core courses for the second major in order to be granted a double major degree.

Students who did not complete or are short of 40 credits for the second major must make up for those credits by taking courses designated by the second-major department or degree program.

Students who withdraw from their double major study but have completed credit requirements for a minor degree can be granted a minor degree. For double-major students who fail to acquire enough credits for either a second-major degree or a minor degree, the additional credit courses taken can be considered as credits toward graduation from their original program as long as the courses are related to their original field of study.

Article 6 Students who have extended their period of study due to pursuit of a double major and take 9 or less credits shall pay credit fees. The said students who take 10 or more credits shall pay the full amount of tuition and miscellaneous fees. Undergraduate students in Extension Education Programs under the said circumstance shall pay credit fees.

Article 7 Double major students should take core courses for the second major during the regular semester. In the event of course schedule conflict between the students' first and second major, they may attend summer courses in compliance to the NCHU Regulations for Summer Courses.

Article 8 Double major students' credits taken for the first and second major in each semester shall both be calculated and reported on the transcript issued by the first major department (or degree program).

Article 9 Double major students who are unable or unwilling to continue their pursuit of a second major shall be allowed to withdraw from the second major study with the approval from the deans of both departments.

Article 10 At the end of double major students' two-year study time extension, those who have acquired necessary credits for graduation from their first-major department (or degree program) but failed to do so for their second-major department (or degree program) may declare withdrawal from the double-major study within the permitted time frame (December 1 to 31 for the first semester; May 1 to 31 for the second semester). The aforementioned students are eligible for receiving a degree from their original-major department or degree program.

If the aforementioned students do not wish to withdraw from the second-major study, they may apply for the extension of study period for at most a year, but they must withdraw if they still fail to complete all required core courses in the second-major at the end of the one-year extension. The aforementioned students who fail to fulfill double-major requirements and withdrawal from the double-major study may still be granted a minor degree if they have acquired enough credits for receiving a minor degree in the second field of study.

Students who withdrawal from the double-major study are not permitted to finish their double major study after graduation.

- Article 11 Transferred undergraduate students who pursued a double major in their previous university shall re-apply for double major eligibility in NCHU.
- Article 12 Once students fulfilled the double-major credit requirements, their double-major (in a department or a degree program) status will be noted in their Chinese or English transcript, diploma, transfer certificates and other certificates.
- Article 13 For students who fulfill the graduation requirements of a double-major, the aforementioned information will be noted in their student information data, diploma, graduating students list, and each year's transcript.
- Article 14 These regulations and any amendments hereto shall be reviewed at the Academic Affairs Meetings, publicly announced, implemented, and submitted to the Ministry of Education for record.
